The health and safety of our staff, volunteers and community is a priority for Conservation Sudbury.

Following public health guidance, our office has been closed to the public since December 25, 2020 and will remain so until the end Ontario's declared state of emergency. Staff continue to operate through phone and email communication.

The Lake Laurentian Conservation Area trails have remained accessible to the public since the beginning of the pandemic. We understand the importance of access to nature for community health and well-being.

The trails are accessible for passive, walk-through recreation only. Please follow posted signs and practice social distancing. Outdoor gatherings are limited to 5 people. We recommend avoiding peak times, such as late morning and early afternoon. If an access point is busy, please return at a later time.

Dog owners are reminded to poop and scoop and keep all dogs leashed at all times. The Nature Chalet remains closed to the public.

BioSki trail conditions and visitor information can be found on their social media channels and at BioSki.ca

Conservation Sudbury monitors provincial and local public health recommendations and will update this document as needed.
